

Invitation to the International Anti-nuclear Summer Camp

July 17-23, 2017 in Döbeln (Germany)

Activists with the Nuclear Heritage Network, a worldwide informal platform of anti-nuclear activists from many regions, are inviting to an international anti-nuclear summer camp in Döbeln in Saxony 2017. The initiative for this gathering emanated from the impression that during the last years we lacked an independent space for strategical discussions and developing campaigns.

We expect activists, organizers and interested people from many regions of the world to participate to exchange experiences and knowledge, to hold strategical discussions and wishing to strengthen the networks of groups and organizations in the anti-nuclear field.

Particularly, but not solely, we expect participating campaigners and other committed people active in these two focus topic fields from various countries and different atomic facilities. Our gathering aims at connecting these struggles and should effectively strengthen related actions and campaigns.

Besides workshops, lectures and actions as well as an excursion to the WISMUT mining area will take place, which once was the third biggest uranium producer in the world. These days a so-called "clean-up" and "reclamation" is carried out. Operator and authorities give the impression of an exemplary clearing up of the radioactive legacy.

The summer camp is aiming on preparing new campaigns and projects, doing actions and facilitating us to learn new things. It will also be a space for getting to know each other and to start new co-operations.

Two focus topics we will particularly deal with: on the one hand the extensive processing chain of the uranium spiral, which virtually covers all areas of the atomic concern and connects initiatives as well as topics with each other. On the second hand we will concern ourselves with the currently occurring constructions of new atomic plants and massive lifetime extensions of nuclear reactors at many spots in Europe and beyond.

This claim has to be questioned critically as the WISMUT clean-up is not just expensive, but scandalous. It is in no way a safe disposal of the nuclear problem site.

Anti-nuclear experts as well as organizers and activists will share their knowledge with you. Everyone is invited to offer themselves workshops or presentations they are familiar with. We hope that many participants will report about struggles against nuclear power respectively the atomic policies in their regions. This gathering will be a platform to discuss current issues, upcoming campaigns and actions, and to support those. It would be wonderful if you could contribute your own topics to the camp!

The camp also aims at making it possible for activists to participate together with their children. We will also do our best to organize support in as many languages as possible, based for instance on (self-organized, non-professional) whisper translations. To put these wishes into practice we need your help. Get in touch with us if you can help with preparation of the gathering, spreading the word or by helping during the very camp - for instance with translations, organizational support or specific offers for participating younger people.

We ask you not to bring pets to the camp.
